

MARKET BECOMES BUOYANT

OPERATIONS BEING CONDUCTED BY THE PROFESSIONAL CLASS.

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The stock market today gave abundant evidence of resumption of speculation under the leadership and operation by the professional class. The boldness and skill with which operations were conducted pointed to practical hands. The movement was directed primarily against short interests which it was assumed would be larger after so lengthened a period of drain and disorder in the market. The basis of the movement is, of course, the clearing of financial prospects heralded by the fading away of premium on currency; advices from interior bankers of their preparation for resumption of cash payments as soon as the New York banks shall take the lead and the conviction that such developments are now at hand. The feelings of professional traders were animated during the day by many rumors, chief of which preferred to deal with the forthcoming message of President Roosevelt to congress. Today's transactions showed a tendency to converge on stocks which always have been speculative favorites in the past, and the market was given a rather spotty appearance in this way at times almost feverish. Time money market showed relaxation. Bonds were active and strong.

ADVOCATES WORLD-WIDE BI-METALISM

National Silver Party Official Says United States Is Not the Only Country Suffering From Money Shortage.

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Isaac Stevens, who was chairman of the executive committee of the National Silver party in the campaign of 1896, said in an interview today: "There's not basic money enough in the world to do the business of the world. The United States is not the only country suffering from a shortage of money. Gold doesn't furnish sufficient basis for the enormous development taking place over the world and for the colossal business enterprises of the present day. There has never been a greater need for world-wide bi-metalism than during the past five years. If civilization is to continue its rapid stride both gold and silver are absolutely necessary as a basic money. This is the time for the congress of the United States to inaugurate universal movement for bi-metalism."

Prosecution Opens In the Bradley Case

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The arguments in the Bradley case began today, after both sides had closed. The court allowed each side four hours for argument, and the opening argument for the prosecution was made by Mr. Truner. He was followed by Attorney Wells for the defense, and on Monday, former Judge Orlando Powers, one of the most brilliant attorneys of the west will close for the defense, while Prosecutor Baker will close for the state.
Mrs. Bradley seemed to be in much better spirits today than she has been for some time. She followed the argument of the impressive Turner with the closest attention, and she in turn was the center of all eyes. The attorney made a scathing attack upon her, and she grew red and white by turns as he proceeded, and at times seemed on the verge of hysterics.
Turner told the jury that if they decided that Mrs. Bradley was not insane when she shot Brown, they might find one of three verdicts. If she did the killing after preparation, she is guilty of murder in the first degree; if she killed him on the impulse of the moment, she is guilty of murder in the second degree; if she shot unintentionally, while making a threat, she is guilty of manslaughter.
The lawyer attacked the insane plea, saying that she acted as any murderer would have acted in the circumstances, and that the woman was a great actress. He attacked the theory that she was dominated by Brown, and spoke mercilessly of her having neglected her two children by her own husband to ensure the husband of an older woman. He wanted to know how far the oath of such a woman was to be relied upon. Mr. Turner spoke for a little more than two hours.

"Stoylin Necktie" Creates Excitement

(By Associated Press.)
ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 30.—"The Stoylin neckties," an expression used by Federi Roditcheff, orator of the constitutional democrats in the duma this afternoon, to designate summary drum-head court martials instituted by Premier Stoylin August, 1906, and decreed out of existence by the second duma last April, is the phase on all lips in the capital tonight. The phase has already become historic and has completely blotted out the effect of ministerial declarations in subsequent debates, destroyed the complacency of the conservatives and restored the tense atmosphere of the earlier duma. M. Stoylin upon hearing the words fall, turned deathly pale at the unprecedented storm let loose by the reactionary deputies surging past him. Finally he left the chamber without talking. The tumult caused by Roditcheff's speech for half an hour, during which the speaker was severely handled. After an hour's intermission the session reopened. M. Khomyakoff, the president, proposed to suspend Roditcheff from the sittings. The latter rose and declared he had no intention of offending any one. The suspension was voted by sixty-nine majority.

FAIR DIVORCEE MARRIES NEVADAN

ALAMEDA, Nov. 30.—Army and social circles about the bay will have a new topic of conversation when they learn of the marriage at Winnemucca, Nevada (of Mrs. Flora Bush, the divorced wife of Captain Joseph Bush, United States army, and daughter of General A. G. Girard, retired, to L. C. Turkeman, a Winnemucca mining man. News of the wedding was sent to close Alameda friends by the bride today. The wedding took place last Saturday.

The Bush divorce case was of recent date and its details are quite fresh in the minds of the wide circle of friends of the army officer and his beautiful ex-wife.

Mrs. Turkeman as Mrs. Bush was accustomed to taking part in all the social activities at the various army posts where her husband was stationed, while Captain Bush was of a retiring nature and found more comfort in his home and profession than attending pink teas and other social functions. Owing to the temperamental differences discord resulted, which eventually led the two into the divorce court.

After the divorce Mrs. Bush went to Winnemucca, taking with her the three Bush children. Later she met Turkeman and the mining man prospected her heart as thoroughly and successfully as he did the gold signs on his mining property. Mr. and Mrs. Turkeman are now in Los Angeles on their honeymoon and will return later to Winnemucca to live.

BUTTE, Mont., Nov. 30.—A Miner special from Lewiston, Mont., says that a coroner's jury at Pine Grove today heeding a plea of justification based upon the "unwritten law" coupled with self-defense, exonerated Chester A. Smith of killing Wallace Washburn, a prominent rancher of Pine Grove, and turned him loose. The verdict aroused much indignation in Pine Grove, the personnel of the coroner's jury being brought in from the outside. The killing of Washburn followed the confession of Mrs. Smith that before and after her marriage to Smith, six months ago, she had sustained improper relations with Washburn. Pine Grove citizens will demand a further investigation of the killing.
